WOMEN'S MARCH [REDACTED] CHAPTER'S TO PROTEST ROLLBACK OF WOMEN'S HUMAN RIGHTS ON 18 JANUARY 2020

Women's March [REDACTED] Chapter's 2020 title is "March For Our Human Rights" and is focused on bodily autonomy, the right to decide for one's own body

[Insert Chapter Geography] | 18 DECEMBER 2019 - In one month, thousands of people will take to the streets of [insert chapter geography] for the fourth annual Global Women's March, an annual event that unites women and allies around the world in their fight for equality, justice and women's human rights. The theme of this year's March, which is scheduled to take place on January 18, 2020, is bodily autonomy, drawing attention to the systemic oppression women face in their attempts to decide about their body, life and future.

"We have experienced significant retreats in the advancement of women's rights in [insert geography] and across the world," said [insert chapter president name and title]. "Through the connected nature of our struggles and our shared concern for humanity, we must mobilize for global action towards our collective liberation." (Use this quote or write a quote that works for you).

Earlier this year, the United States declared, along with 19 other member states, that there is no international right to abortion at a United Nations meeting. The states that denied women's right to access safe and legal abortion at the United Nations represent 1.3 billion people. This year's March will bring attention to the alarming rollback of women's right to bodily autonomy. It will also declare that women and allies will not allow this to stand, displaying global solidarity for the right to make free decisions about what happens to one's own body, life and future. Without question.

Locally - is there an example that can be used regarding the subversion of women's rights?
